Dear Denny,

In my prior correspondence, I promised you more news concerning your candidacy for Columbia University.

Our incoming class remains full, which leaves us with the regrettable task of releasing you from our waitlist so that you may go forward with your plans for the coming year. We recognize and applaud your record of academic and personal achievement and regret that Columbia will not have the benefit of the contributions you could make here. The college where you matriculate this fall is a lucky institution, and we are sure that community will be made richer by your academic and personal contributions.

Thank you for joining the Columbia waitlist and again for your longstanding interest in Columbia. We wish you much success in college this year and well wishes as you start your next academic chapter.

Sincerely,
